

UNDER ARREST AT TURK'S ISLAND

Four Men Who Sailed from Chicago to Search for Gold in Patagonia's Wilds.

SUSPECTED OF FILIBUSTERING.

Had Papers, but Those in Charge Could Not Account for Time Elapsed Since Sailing.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—The Tribune today says:

Six men who sailed away from Chicago a year ago in search of a gold mine in the wilds of Patagonia are now under arrest at Turk's Island in the West Indies suspected of filibustering. Their arrest and the detention of their schooner, Mercury, has been laid before the secretary of state.

Chas. Corrigan, a Texas cowboy, came to Chicago last fall, watched like a hawk for a month and then took five men into his confidence. Corrigan said he had a map showing the location of a gold mine rivaling that of King Solomon. His story was that his discovery had been driven out by natives, and when he died on a ranch he gave the drawings to Corrigan.

The Mercury sailed for New Orleans in October. It was to cross the Gulf of Mexico and cruise along the coast of South America to Patagonia.

Charles Hardin was the master and owner, according to the ship's papers, and Emil von Boroucke was first mate. When the Mercury came into the harbor at Turk's Island the American and British consuls discovered many suspicious circumstances. The schooner had papers from Chicago, but could not account for the time which had elapsed since they had been taken out. Hardin was no longer master. The vessel was held until the business of its owners could be investigated.

Mr. Schofield is also receiver of the First National bank of Astoria, Ore., N. J. The proximity of these trusts will enable one receiver to liquidate their affairs at a less expense to both than an independent receiver for each.

BARGAIN BABIES.

If babies were for sale the most inveterate bargain-hunting woman in the world would not look for a bargain baby. She would want the best baby that could be bought, regardless of price.

Every woman naturally craves a healthy, handsome child, and her craving can be gratified if she will but remember that the child's health is her own gift, and to give health she must have it to give. Mothers whose babies have been weak and puny have nursed in strength their first strong child after using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is the best preparation for maternity, encouraging the appetite, quieting the nerves and inducing refreshing sleep. It gives the mother strength to give her child, and makes the baby's advent practically painless.

"My wife had been sick nearly all her life," says Mr. E. H. Price, of Petersburg, Mead Co., Illinois, Box 57, "and after trying everything I could think of I made up my mind to try 'Favorite Prescription.' I got six bottles, which my wife took, a tablespoonful three times a day, until the baby came. She felt better after taking the first bottle, and when baby was born he weighed nine and a half pounds. Today he is six months old and weighs twenty-two pounds. He is as good a child as any one could wish. The doctor says he is as healthy as any baby could be, and also says the use of your 'Favorite Prescription' was the cause of such a healthy baby."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the best and safest laxative for the use of delicate women.

Yellowstone park business this year, weeks ago, broke all previous records, and still they come. All reports from the National preserve are to the effect that tourists are pouring into the park by the half hundred daily. This morning the Pullman "Berne" came in from Mounds crowded fore and aft with a happy contingent that left Salt Lake last week for an outing in the wonderland of the west.

In addition to the Salt Lakeers on board there was a representation from all over the country which embraced a couple of Southerners drawn and all complete; two Klondike miners with pockets full of loose nuggets; a drummer on a vacation with a brand new stock of sample stores; half a dozen ladies wearing fashionable coats of tan and other holiday attire; and a general sprinkling of nondescripts.

For the benefit of those who happened to be on board the train and who, to quote the famous old hymn "were born to labor in the sun," the tourists told

CANNING GREEN CORN.

The following recipe for canning green corn is the New England method recommended by Rural New-Yorker:

Gather the corn while tender and juicy; husk out off one-half the depth of the kernel, and scrape out the rest. Fill the cans, prepared as for fruit, packing the corn down very solid in the can with a potato masher. If the corn is as juicy as it should be, there will be need of adding water, but if there are cavities where the corn is not pressed together put in cold water enough to fill them. Put the cover on, screwing tight, and place the cans in a boiler of cold water, having placed in the bottom a few cornstalks, with husks on top of them, to stand the cans on. The water, which should not come to the top of the can, should be brought to a boil, and then boil slowly without ceasing for three hours. When done, the cans should be lifted, one at a time, and the rubber ring and top of jar must be put on the can before it is set to boil, and the lid must be screwed down after cooking without being removed from the can. The rubber ring and top of jar must be free from particles of corn before boiling. The water must be kept boiling until the last can of corn is removed from it. As soon as screwed up, stand the can upon its top, and leave it thus until cold. If the can leaks when turned over, screw tighter, but if this does not stop the leak, do not try to keep that can. When quite cold, turn the can over.

REMEDY FOR LUMPY JAW.

James Curfew asks the "News" for a remedy for what he describes as a hard, lumpy growth on the jaw of a halibut. The letter was referred to the Utah experiment station, and the following reply was made by R. W. Clark, professor of animal industry:

"The trouble that Mr. Curfew mentions of a young cod having a hard swelling or lump on her jaw is what is known as lumpy jaw. The latest treatment for this trouble is to give a dose of iodine of potassium internally, the size of which will vary with the size of the animal to be treated. If the drug is given twice daily the dose should be smaller. The right proportion calls for one-fourth dram for every one hundred pounds of live weight. After giving full doses for from six to ten days, symptoms of iodism will be noted. The eyes water and a flow of mucus comes from the nose. The medicine should be withheld for several days and again given. The treatment should be kept up for a month or so until a cure is effected. The medicine should be dissolved in a small amount of water and given as a drench."

ANXIOUS TO PLEASE.

"Now, see her," said the man who called himself "particular," and whom the outside world called "fussy," to the restaurant waiter, "I want you to pay attention, and serve things exactly as I say, or I shan't eat them, and what's more, I shan't pay for them."

"Yes, sir," said the waiter, bent forward, face devoid of any sort of expression.

"I want toast, well toasted but not burned, buttered while it's hot, set in the oven for one minute, then served."

"Yes, sir. Well done, not burned, buttered hot, set in oven one minute, then served."

"And coffee, strong, clear, hot, but not scalding."

"Yes, sir. Black, hot, no scalding."

THE SHREWD BISHOP.

The Rev. Sanford Olmsted, the new Episcopal bishop of Colorado, is noted for the skill with which he can collect money for charity. St. Anne's church, at Bala, Pa., was Bishop Olmsted's last charge, and this church, under his pastorate, actually had more money than it could spend.

Here is an instance of Bishop Olmsted's address as a collector. He called on a man one day who was well-to-do, but somewhat close. He asked for money for a worthy charity, and the man said:

"I'd give something gladly, but the fact is I've only $300 by me in cash—$200 that I've put aside for my funeral."

"You trust God with your soul," said Bishop Olmsted, "but you're afraid to trust him with your funeral, eh?"

This comment gained the bishop a generous contribution.
